THE COST OF ALCOHOL

My purpose in writing this column is to encourage you, the reader, to critique the status quo. I would like you to ask: Are things – the way they are – the way I want them to be? Could, or should, my thinking on this subject change? Do I use a different logic depending on the issue or what “I want”?

The topic for consideration is alcohol, its use and abuse and the consequences thereof. Since Alcohol Awareness Month began in 1987 and is celebrated in April, I thought it appropriate to look at some statistics. A CDC study in 2014 found that, in the US, approximately 88,000 lives were lost to excessive alcohol use from 2006-2010.

Every day, 29 people in the US die in motor vehicle crashes that involve an alcohol-impaired driver; this is one death every 50 minutes. The annual US cost of alcohol-related crashes totals more than $44 billion. Excessive alcohol use cost the US over $249 billion per year. The CDC broke that down and found that losses in workplace productivity was 72% of that cost, health care took 11%, criminal justice expenses were 10% and losses from auto crashes were 5%.

The data for 2010 showed that alcohol cost NH $959,900,000. How are these costs covered? 40% is paid by federal, state and local governments, that is you and me, the taxpayer. If there is any good news, it is that in 2010 NH was the state with the lowest per drink cost to cover the damage.

The ‘bad news’, if you will, is that the tax benefit to the state of NH was in 2016 about $156 million. However, as pointed out in a Concord Monitor editorial, the 2012 costs to NH were much more than that. (Property loss: $940 million. Medical costs: $285 million. Motor Vehicle: $67 million. Judicial/Law enforcement: $37 million).

And I have not even brought up the huge issue of ‘alcohol addiction’. But it did get discussed during Laura Knoy’s interview with Senator Hassan on April 1, 2019 when it was noted that people suffering from this addiction are showing up at the opioid treatment centers. Finally, many in medicine would say: “the safest level of drinking is none.”

So the obvious question to ask in the “Live Free or Die” state is this: Are we a people who are willing accept the ‘cost’ (financial as well as death) to have our ‘right’ to drink what we want? And let’s be consistent and ask the same question about smoking, marijuana, and guns. Maybe our real state motto should be: “Live Free and Possibly Die.” I trust I have stimulated some thought for discussion around your dinner table.
