On August 16, 2019 at 12:18 PM, the Bow Fire Department was called for an underground propane tank leaking at a Summer Lane residence. Upon arrival there was a 1000-gallon propane tank actively leaking high-pressure vapor. A relief valve was sheered off from a piece of heavy equipment. An unmanned master-stream was used to control vapors and three residences were evacuated. Technicians from Central NH Regional Haz-Team and Rymes replaced the sheered relief valve and the leak was stopped at 2:22 PM. All units were clear at 3:30 PM. There were no injuries.

TOWN ASSESSOR REPORTS 14% INCREASE IN BOW PROPERTY VALUATION

by Monica Hurley, Town Assessor

Every year the Town of Bow Assessing Department monitors qualified sales and the real estate market in general in Bow. The Assessor’s Office does this to make sure that current assessments are close to 100% of full, fair market value as required by the State of New Hampshire Department of Revenue administration.

During this most recent year of qualified sales, the overall median assessment to sale ratio dropped down to 84%. This means that sale prices are approximately 16% higher than current assessments. We are seeing approximately .3% to .4% increase per month in the real estate market in Bow. The last full revaluation in Bow was conducted in 2014. In 2014, the median sale price for a single-family home in Bow was $285,000. By comparison, the median sale price for a single-family home in Bow today is $360,000.

Based on sales studies, the Assessing Department has completed a town-wide revaluation to all properties values for the 2019 tax year. Town wide assessments have been adjusted to account for the increasing real estate market. Our analysis and subsequent valuation updates reveal the following:

118 Total Qualified sales from October 1, 2018 through July 31, 2019.

The overall increase in valuation for the Town of Bow for 2019 is estimated at $166,301,787 or 14% from 2018’s total valuation. This includes 24 new residential properties with a value of $8.2 million and 1 new commercial property at $17.2 million.

HISTORIC CHURCH STEEPLE RESTORED

Lightning struck the 200 year old Bow Baptist Church steeple in July 2018, sparking an intense blaze that fire crews managed to prevent from spreading to the rest of the building. The steeple was destroyed and the interior below sustained heavy water damage. Since the fire, church members applied for and got the building added to the New Hampshire Register of Historic Places. The congregation is now working on raising money to get a matching New Hampshire Land and Community Heritage Investment Program grant for the rest of the rehabilitation project it needs to do.

Pastor Richard Huntley said insurance covered the $185,000 cost to replace the steeple, which was rebuilt by Steve Fifield, of Canterbury, who specializes in restoring structures from the 18th and 19th century.

“Steve spent a lot of hours analyzing all the details,” Huntley said. “It’s a real pleasure to see it being placed up there.”

Built in 1832 under the ministry of the Rev. William Boswell, the church was later led by the Rev. Henry Archibald, a leading abolitionist in the Bow and Concord area. The church’s nearby parsonage was a safe house on the Underground Railroad in the mid-19th century, and it is believed that the church used its weather vane to signal if the area was safe for the black men and women escaping slavery and on their way north to Canada.

Support for “Talking Trash”
I wanted to express my support for Danielle Ruane’s “Talking Trash” column in the August 2019 edition. I had no idea where the donations to the textile collection bins in town were sent, and I am happy to learn that donations aren’t limited by quality. I think it is important to bring awareness to alternative methods of recycling, such as donating old or gently-used textile goods. I encourage your readers to consider sourcing a larger proportion of their purchases from secondhand vendors. Local thrift stores and online retailers including www.thredup.com and www.REI.com/usds offer a great selection of lightly-used and generously-discounted items! Buying second-hand can help one to reduce their environmental impact—a major win-win!

Benefits of Trump Economy?
I would much rather remember Judd Gregg as an elder statesman who was fiscally responsible but now your pointlss backtracking has spoiled that. I have no idea why you would have accepted an offer to join a left-wing administration whose stated goal was to transform America? Republicans in NH have struggled to overcome that defeatist, if you can’t live free or die. Don Fite, Bow

Economic and Environmental Costs of Merrimack Station. My family and I reside here in Bow and I am deeply concerned for the economic and environmental costs of the Merrimack Station. NH electricity rate payers are paying coal-based power producers in advance to be “on call” and we really shouldn’t have to. Why? Because ISO-New England pays Companies like Granite Shore Power (owner of the Bow coal plant) a lot of money to be able to generate power quickly during times of peak load, like the coldest and hottest days of the year. (ISO-NE is an independent, not-for-profit corporation responsible for keeping electricity flowing across the 6 New England States. It runs the markets where participants buy and sell wholesale electricity)
From January 2018 to May 2023, ISO-NE will pay more than $400 million just to make sure it can rely on the plants to produce power in periods of peak demand. And that’s in addition to what it earns for the electricity they actually produce. The Merrimack Station in Bow, NH received payments totaling $357 million in 2018, just for being there.
Since NH Ratepayers (that’s us) pay ISO-NE to run the grid, it means WE are paying for these coal-fired generating stations. We are giving these coal generators “free money” just to be “on call.” This is a fossil fuel subsidy. If the coal plant did not receive this money, it would probably not be cost-effective to continue to use coal to generate the amount of electricity they actually produce.
It’s time to stop paying coal plant in Bow to do nothing. It’s time to stop using coal to generate electricity.
Live free or die. Don Fite, Bow

Low Taxes Are the Result of Low Spending

by Chuck Douglas

The words “felon,” “offender,” “convict,” “addict” and “juvenile delinquent” would be part of the past in official San Francisco lingo under its new “person first” language guidelines adopted by the city’s Board of Supervisors in July. Someone once called a convicted felon or an offender released from jail will now be a “formerly incarcerated person,” or a “justice-involved” person or, even better, simply a “returning resident.”
Parolees and people on criminal probation will be referred to as “persons under supervision.”
A juvenile “delinquent” will become a young person with a system involvement, or a “young person impacted by the juvenile justice system.”
And drug addicts or substance abusers will become “a person with a history of substance use.”
“We don’t want people to be forever labeled for the worst things that they have done,” Supervisor Matt Haney said in pushing the changes.

According to the resolution, “Inaccurate information, unfounded assumptions, generalizations and other negative predispositions associated with justice-involved individuals create societal stigmas, attitudinal barriers and continued negative stereotypes.”
Police spokesman, David Stevenson, said the department has “made our members aware of the resolution and are researching possible impacts on operations and communications.”
Columnist, Phil Matier, in the San Francisco Chronicle for August 11, 2019, posed the question of how you would describe someone whose car was broken into by a recently released offender, on parole with a drug problem.
His answer was simple. “A person who has come in contact with a returning resident whose car was broken into by a recently released offender, on parole with a drug problem.”
New Hampshire has its own political correctness in changed terminology for divorce parenting issues.
“Custody” in the new parenting schedule forms is out. Neither parent shall be described as having the child “reside primarily” with him or her or as having “primary residential responsibility” or “custody” or be designated as the “primary residential parent.”
The new phrase is residential responsibility and parenting. “Visitation” is a non-word as well.
So have the changes in wording done anything to reduce the anger of the every other weekend schedule for a spouse to have his or her children with them?
Of course not.

A proud member of the New Hampshire Press Association
A federal court judge will soon decide whether a lawsuit should go forward that the Sierra Club and Conservation Law Foundation has filed over alleged violations of water-discharge permits for the Merrimack Station coal-burning power plant in Bow.

The two organizations say the owner of Merrimack Station, Granite Shore Power LLC, and previous owner Eversource have been violating the terms of their 1992 permit by discharging heated water into the Merrimack River.

But the power companies say the organizations, which filed the legal action in February, were too late in doing so and have not identified a single date where the thermal pollution took place.

“This lawsuit is part of a continuing and long-running effort by the Plaintiffs to shut down the Station,” wrote Wilbur Glahn of the McLane Middleton law firm, which is representing both the defendants.

U.S. District Court Judge Joseph Laplante held a hearing on efforts by Granite Shore and Eversource to dismiss the suit or, in the alternative, delay it pending EPA review of the current permit. Laplante said he would issue a ruling later.

The Sierra Club has said Merrimack Station has been operating on a permit issued 26 years ago, long past the five-year term set by the Clean Water Act. It has twice held off suing over Merrimack Station, only to see the Environmental Protection Agency not meet its internal deadline for issuing a permit.

“EPA’s delay gives this uneconomic plant an unfair competitive advantage over generators operating in compliance with modern pollution control equipment,” wrote Mark Kresowik, a director of the Sierra Club’s Beyond Coal Campaign, in June 2018.

A year ago, the EPA wrote the Sierra Club and asked it to hold off on a lawsuit, saying it would be counterproductive in its efforts to complete a new permit. It estimated that a new permit would be issued by last winter.

Last year Eversource closed on a $175 million deal that included Merrimack Station. The plant is now used only when high demand necessitates its operation. CLF said there are two other coal plants in New England – Bridgeport Harbor Station in Connecticut, which is slated to close in June 2021, and Schiller Station in Portsmouth.

On July 16, 2019, The Board of Selectmen of Bow adopted an ordinance on overnight parking to read as follows: §164-6.1 Overnight parking prohibited on Town-owned property.

There shall be no overnight parking upon any public property, including any Town-owned building or facility parking lot, park, common, playground or recreational area, between the hours of 11:00 p.m. and 6:00 a.m. unless permission is granted by the Town.

This ordinance shall take effect on August 1, 2019.

An increase in assessment does not necessarily mean an increase for property tax bills. The new tax rate for 2019 will not be set by the State of New Hampshire for Bow until late October.

Notifications of new assessment were mailed out to all property owners on or around August 22.

The assessing web page has new values sorted by Owner Name and by Location as well as a qualified sales list used in the analysis to bring values to full fair market value.

The State Department of Revenue Administration sets the tax rate for towns and cities in October. The State budget has not been agreed to yet so there is unknown State aid to be factored in.

The ninth joy of aging is discernment, or the ability to judge well. As we age, we experience things. Many things. Good, bad, easy, hard, fun, not fun, etc. Each of these experiences teaches us and we hopefully grow from them. They add to our makeup. We become who we are through our experiences. We gain values and opinions based on who we are and what we have lived through.

Sometimes this is good and makes us more open and understanding. Sometimes it is not good and makes us more closed off or rigid.

These experiences help us make decisions. When situations arise, we use our life experience to help us make choices of what to do next and how to react to things that happen in our lives and the lives of those around us.

Discernment is using those experiences to decide, what is the best path for us? How do we wish to base our decisions on. There-fore, they should have better discernment.

People growing up now have only experienced the age of plenty, unless they are growing up in poverty. Fortunately, for our young people today not growing up in poverty they have many gad-gets, many opportunities, many positive experiences and many advantages that other generations before them did not have. This is why they lack discernment in understanding where other people are coming from and why they think and believe the way they do. They have not had to overcome yet.

As you see in the opening para-graph, discernment is the ability to judge “well.” Well being the key word. Anyone can judge – and they do, right or wrong, good or bad. The world today is full of judging. What is most often lacking is discernment.

So, congratulations to all of you who experience the 9th joy of aging. Perhaps you can use that along with your other gifts of aging to help our younger generations learn and grow. Put your time into educating them, put your attitude into helping them find positivity in a highly negative world, put your listening and wisdom into hearing their side and then share your experiences with them so they can gain a fuller picture. All of this will lead to your legacy of helping them become who they are meant to be in all good and positive ways. Which, in turn will provide freedom for all.

Until next month, take good care!

CYBERSECURITY: TOP 7 WAYS TO AVOID FRAUD

Computer-related crimes affecting consumers and businesses are frequently in the news. Federally insured financial institutions are required to have vigorous information security programs, but their customers also need to know how to protect and maintain their own computer systems from fraud.

Important tips to consider, developed by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC):

1. Protect Your Computer. Install software that protects against malware, use a firewall, and make sure the setting allows for automatic updates.

2. Use Strong Log-Ins. Use passwords that are difficult to guess and keep them secret. Use combinations of letters-upper and lower case, numbers and symbols. Change them regularly and make sure to use different ones for each account.

3. Understand Internet Safety. Websites that start with “https://” scramble your information during transmission and are more secure. Be sure to log out of financial transactions when you are finished.

4. Be Suspicious of Unsolicited Emails. It’s easy for cyber criminals to duplicate a company’s logo and create a phishing email from it. Don’t click on or download any attachments because it could install malware. Ignore these requests!

5. Be Careful Where You Connect to the Internet. Avoid connecting to the internet in a public place when banking or exchanging personal information. Free Wi-Fi networks are not always secure.

6. Use Social Media Carefully. Criminals are more likely to figure out your passwords from personal information, like birthdates, etc. Don’t share your page access with anyone you don’t know or trust.

7. Take Precautions with Tablets and Smartphones. Make sure your apps are updated, never leave your device unattended and make sure the “auto-lock” feature is on.

REMEMBER HOUSEHOLD HAZARD WASTE DAY! SATURDAY, OCTOBER 19, 2019
A list of acceptable and unacceptable materials can be found at www.bownh.gov (See Ruane article on page 21)
Zig Ziglar once said, “If you aim at nothing, you will hit it every time.” We know from our own experience that he is right. The general flow of human life tends to be toward ease and comfort. One day flows into the next, and many of us never quite get around to turning our good intentions into reality.

Those ‘good intentions,’ while no doubt admirable, tend to remain unrealized because they are too vague. Vague ideas are impossible to focus on and aim for as they are moving targets. Do you have moving targets in your life? Perhaps you want to eat a more healthy diet or you want to establish a regular workout routine and stick with it this time.

The keys to your success are two-fold: steady the target and create momentum.

HOW TO STOP A MOVING TARGET
Imagine a target shooter trying to hit a small bull’s eye on a distant target. He begins to aim, but then the target suddenly moves to the right, and before he can position himself to aim again, the target darts to the left. Will he ever hit that target? Not likely.

Without setting specific goals, good intentions are exactly like that moving target. You would like to lose weight, feel a little better, make a change in your diet – but without clearly defined goals and methods, you can’t focus and make it happen.

The way to steady the target so you can finally hit the bull’s eye is to define your goals and write them down:
• How much weight do you want to lose?
• What kind of changes do you want to make in your diet?
• How many days per week do you want to exercise?
• Which article of clothing do you wish would fit your body again?
• How much weight would you like to lift while strength training?

Once you know where you want to end up, you are much more likely to get there.

But you have to start moving toward your goals. That is where momentum comes in.

CREATE MOMENTUM TO REACH YOUR GOALS
In his book, Eat that Frog, Brian Tracy discusses the Momentum Principle of Success. In Tracy’s words:
“This principle says that although it may take tremendous amounts of energy to overcome inertia and get started initially, it then takes far less energy to keep going.”

There is much wisdom in his words. Sometimes, the hardest part of reaching a goal is just getting started. That first day of doing things differently or the first experience of bypassing an unhealthy treat in favor of a food that will give you more energy can be daunting. It isn’t easy and it certainly isn’t fun.

So how do you get that momentum? Accountability is the answer. Having someone else involved in your efforts can be the most important factor in your success.

It is hard to change lifelong habits on your own. You need radical motivation that comes from involving others in your efforts. Setting deadlines, making commitments and entering contests all provide an external motivation that will carry you through even the toughest temptations.

And once you get started, you will find that the momentum principle kicks in and it becomes easier and easier to keep going.

GOALS + MOMENTUM = SUCCESS

START NOW
You can make that moving target come to a screeching halt and blast the bull’s eye right out of it by taking a few minutes to write down what you want. Don’t make it your goals too broad; be specific. And then begin brainstorming ways to get others involved with you; that will provide your momentum. Success is within your reach. You can do this!

Oh, and remember, if you need any help, I am only an email or phone call away. My team and I here to help you to get started or the entire way if that is what you need!

Considering coverage for your household.

A growing family, by definition, means growing financial obligations – both in the present and in the future. Raising children can increase your insurance needs and heighten the urgency for being properly prepared.

Auto. When a child becomes a new driver, one option is to add the teenager to the parents’ policy. You may want to discuss with your auto insurer ways to reduce the additional premium that accompanies a new driver.1

Home. You should periodically review your homeowners policy for three primary reasons. A growing family generally accumulates increasing amounts of personal belongings. Think of each child’s toys, clothes, electronic equipment, etc. Moreover, household income tends to rise during this time, which means that jewelry, art, and other valuables may be among your growing personal assets.

The second reason is that the costs of rebuilding – and debris removal – may have risen over time, necessitating an increase in insurance coverage.

Lastly, with growing wealth, you may want to raise liability coverage, or if you do not have an umbrella policy, consider adding it now. Umbrella insurance is designed to help protect against the financial risk of personal liability.

Health. With your first child, be sure to change your health care coverage to a family plan. If you and your spouse have retained separate plans, you may want to evaluate which plan has a better cost-benefit profile. Think about whether now is the appropriate time to consolidate coverage into one plan.

Disability. If your family is likely to suffer economically because of the loss of one spouse’s income, then disability insurance serves an important role in replacing income that may allow you to meet living expenses without depleting savings.

Remember, however, the information in this material is not intended as tax or legal advice. It may not be used for the purpose of avoiding any federal tax penalties. Please consult a professional with legal or tax experience for specific information regarding your individual situation.

If you already have disability insurance, consider increasing the income replacement benefit since your income and standard of living may now be higher than when you bought the policy.

Life. With children, the amount of future financial obligations increases. The cost of raising children and funding their college education can be expensive. Should one of the spouses die, the loss of income might severely limit the future quality of life for your surviving children and spouse. Not only does death eliminate the future income of one spouse permanently, but the future earning potential of the surviving spouse might be diminished as single parenthood may necessitate fewer working hours and turning down promotions.

The amount of life insurance coverage needed to fund this potential financial loss is predicated on, among other factors, lifestyle, debts, ages and number of children, and anticipated future college expenses. Several factors will affect the cost and availability of life insurance, including age, health, and the type and amount of insurance purchased. Life insurance policies have expenses, including mortality and other charges. If a policy is surrendered prematurely, the policyholder also may pay surrender charges and may incur income tax implications. You should consider determining whether you are insurable before implementing a strategy involving life insurance. Any guarantees associated with a policy are dependent on the ability of the issuing company to continue making claim payments.

Some couples decide to have one parent stay at home to care for the children full time. The economic value of the stay-at-home parent is frequently overlooked. Should the stay-at-home parent die, the surviving parent would likely need to pay for a range of household and childcare services, and potentially, suffer the loss of future income due to the demands of single parenthood.

Extended Care. The earlier you consider extended care choices, the better. However, the financial demands of more immediate priorities, like saving for your children’s college education or your retirement, will take precedence if they are not properly addressed.

Insurance. As your expenses increase, your ability to withstand the financial losses of unexpected events may decrease. Insurance serves the role in replacing income that may allow you to meet living expenses without depleting savings. Financial planning offered through Northeast Planning Associates, Inc. (NPA), a registered investment adviser. Securities and advisory services offered through LPL Financial, a registered investment adviser and member FINRA/SIPC. STOP THE BLEED

At one time or another we have all either heard or said that the person “bled to death.” It could have been from an accident or an intentional injury. The bottom line was that the person lost enough blood to cause their death. True, there are many ways to “bleed to death”–rupture of an aneurysm, gastro-intestinal bleeding, blunt abdominal trauma and rupture of liver or spleen are examples of blood loss that are not obvious to the bystander. In this article I want to address bleeding that is visible and might be stopped, thus saving a person’s life.

In the Nov 2013 Journal of Emergency Medical Services Dr. Alison Kabaroff wrote: “Approximately 5 million people die every year around the world from accidental and non-accidental trauma. Exsanguination from hemorrhagic shock is the leading cause of preventable death. The STOP THE BLEED classes train civilians into ‘immediate responders.’ That would be you.

A national awareness campaign and call to action was begun in 2015 with the American College of Surgeons Committee on Trauma leading the effort to save lives by teaching ordinary people how to provide the initial emergency response to stop bleeding. The goal of the Stop the Bleed classes prepare people on how to apply pressure, pack a wound or use a tourniquet. These are simple skills that can be done by anyone. No matter how quickly “first responders” arrive, there will always be someone who is actually first on the scene, and it is that person who can act quickly and save a life. The goal of the Stop the Bleed initiative is to turn civilians into “immediate responders.” That would be you.

According to Dr. Jacobs, Medical Director of the Stop the Bleed program, “The goal of Stop the Bleed training is simple: to keep the blood inside of the body. A person who is seriously injured can bleed to death in 5 – 10 minutes, before professional emergency care arrives.” The average adult who weights between 150 – 180 pounds has about 4.5 to 5.7 liters (that is about 1.2 to 1.5 gallons) of blood in their body. Your blood pressure and heart rate will stay close to normal even if you have lost 30% of your blood volume. After that, your blood pressure will drop, your heart rate will be higher than 120 beats per minute and your breathing rate will go up to 30-40 breaths per minute. If you lose more than 40% of your blood, you will die. That is about 2 liters (1/2 gallon).

I encourage you contact your local EMS or Trauma Center and ask for them to offer a training in your community or for your organization. Take the course, and then purchase a kit that has supplies for stopping the hemorrhage. They range from $40 to $100 and are available from many suppliers. You can also make your own emergency kit with gauge, gauze and tourniquet (the basic tourniquet is a loop of rope or belt and a stick for twisting and tightening). The key is to know what to do and have your supplies immediately available. In that emergent situation, when it is only you and no supplies... simply compress the bleeding wound with your hand and don’t let go until help arrives.
OllLI, the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute, at Granite State College is well known for its broad array of non-credit courses for adults age 50 and above. The fall term, newly underway, has been true to that reputation. One OLLI member reported gleefully, “In one week I’ve taken three courses— one in fine arts, one in World War II history and one in sustainability/green science.”

Classes are held in four sites: Concord, Manchester, Seacoast and Conway, and members may attend classes in any site. Concord has 77 scheduled for the fall term with a heavy emphasis, by request of the members, on history and politics. Notably, second place for categories preferred by members falls in the arts classification, both hands-on creative arts and performance art.

In the next month seats are available for tours of the new Bank of America Stage Theatre, and the art found in the NH State House. Classroom classes with room for more include On the Campaign Bus with Senator John McCain, Those Gals in their Flying Machines (Women’s Air Service), Social Media and Political Polarization, All about Ticks, Concord Coaches and their Makers and Journey to Patagonia. Classes are open to nonmembers, but OLLI members attend at a discounted rate.

And there are other benefits of membership. Activities in Special Interest Groups (SIGs) are free to members. Concord has four SIGs which also reflect the diversity of interests of the membership. Chapter Chat, Concord’s Book Club has been meeting on the second Monday of every month for several years. The group selects books for the next several months, appoints group leaders to discuss each and welcomes new members. In an interesting deviation from the norm, the last meeting featured a discussion in which each member talked about his/her favorite childhood book and what it meant to them.

Garden Friends, a SIG for members with an interest in gardening, began last year. Members have attended a variety of flower shows, lunched at Pickity Place and visited each other’s flower and vegetable gardens exchanging tips and seeds along the way.

After leading several hikes as an OLLI class presenter, and responding to class members’ interest in hiking regularly, Ray Mercier founded the Concord Area Hiking Group SIG. Starting with the Marjory Swope Park Trail, following up with the Weir Road/Boscawen Town Forest, the group next plans to tackle the Wynant Park Trails and then Oak Hills Trails. The Concord Area Hiking Group SIG. Starting with the Marjory Swope Park Trail, following up with the Weir Road/Boscawen Town Forest, the group next plans to tackle the Wynant Park Trails and then Oak Hills Trails. The group intends to hike year round; Ray contends that there is no bad weather, just bad clothing.

The newest SIG in Concord is the Piecemakers Quilting Group. Open to experienced quilters, the Piecemakers have already attracted two brand new OLLI members (from Bow!) with a passion for quilting. The group kicked off its activities with a trip to the Lady of the Lakes Quilt Show in Wolfeboro and will begin meeting at Granite State College twice a month to work on quilting projects. Besides working on their own individual projects at one of the two meetings each month, as a group they will use the second meeting to create a quilt for charity. The first charitable project will be a pink scrappy quilt to be donated to the Concord Hospital fundraiser for Breast Cancer Research.

Learning in OLLI comes in many forms and SIGs are a popular way to extend the classroom experience in all four sites. Hiking, snowshoeing, dining out, political books, handwork and ukulele are SIGs in OLLI’s other sites.

OLLI members have a great deal of influence over the program they experience. Whether as a volunteer on a committee that chooses the classes and presenters, on one of the governing committees that steers the policies and procedures, on the travel committee deciding on the destinations of future day- and multi-day trips or any other part of the OLLI member experience, OLLI members are in charge of their destiny. Information about OLLI at Granite State College is available on its website, olli.granite.edu or by calling the OLLI office at 603-513-1377.
Summer is winding down. Where did it go so fast? Fall is the most exciting time to be a sportsman. Bear season opens September 1st. Many will be found around apple trees which are very bountiful this fall. Others like to raid corn fields where they can fill up quickly. The big issues with bear hunting is getting it out of the woods, registering it, getting that big fur coat off and putting it into a cooler fast. Fur coats and warm temperatures make a major recipe for spoiled meat.

Bow season for deer starts September 15th. This season gets more popular every year. Practice is very important – arrow placement is critical. A wounded deer is often lost and wasted. Please always respect the property that you hunt and fish on. Litter is NOT acceptable! How can people take ages into the woods and not take the very light empties out?

Salmon season ends on the 31st of September. Some decent fish have been caught in the Broods by Welch Island and Saunder’s Bay.

Popular flies right now include the Golden Demon tied with a touch of pearl flashabou, and also the Blood and Guts. Both patterns are tied on size 4 hooks.

On the trout scene, this is a very special time. As the water cools and the surface reaches the 60 degree mark, trout will leave the deep water and come to the surface. They are usually close to shore, especially when there are weeds close by which supply them with various insects. Flies now are usually much smaller. Either small drys or nymphs, worked very slowly, will produce tiny strikes. Concentration is very crucial now. Tapered leaders to a thin side is important. The coloration of male brook trout in the fall is no less than stunning.

During the morning of our August 25th fishing excursion we were visited by a Great Blue Heron who was still hungry when we left. Of greater interest was the mature Osprey that flew around us from time to time squawking incessantly at Ron as he landed another small trout. Needless to say the Osprey did not leave without a snack.

Great friends and good fishing buddies – what more can one ask for?

See You on The Water

BOOKS IN BLOOM 2019

The Bow Garden Club and the Baker Free Library held the second “Books In Bloom” exhibition on August 9th & 10th. Twenty-one individual vignettes of books and accompanying floral arrangements were on display throughout the library’s lower level for patrons to view and enjoy. Garden club members greeted attendees and answered questions about the different type of plant material, accents and embellishment arrangements used within their designs.

The exhibit followed the theme of the National Summer Reading Program, “A Universe of Stories.” Designers chose books to interpret and reflect space travel, the moon, sky, planets, stars, etc.

On Friday evening, a selection of hors d’oeuvres, fruit, cheese & crackers, homemade cookies, and fresh fruit beverages were enjoyed by patrons while they viewed the exhibit. Both library staff and garden club members contributed to the refreshment table.

The exhibit re-opened on Saturday, with the library staff offering children’s activities upstairs in the library’s activity room where youngsters had the opportunity to make crafts in keeping with the “Universe of Stories” theme. Some of the children also came downstairs with their parents to view the floral displays and found them quite intriguing with their space theme and twinkly lights.

The photos presented here, represent just some examples of the floral designs featured in this year’s “Books In Bloom” event. Thank you to all participants and patrons of our 2019 “Books In Bloom” event!

Technology has revolutionized the world of travel over the past 15-20 years. We can now “look and book” almost anything right from our smart phones—flights, hotel rooms, train travel, car rentals...even luxury villas around the world. No need for pesky paper tickets (remember the fear of losing paper plane tickets?) or hotel confirmations.

The process for re-entering the country also used to be entirely based on “hard copy”. You needed not only an actual physical passport, but also a paper US Customs and Border Protection declaration form giving details on where you are coming from, what (if anything) you are bringing back with you, what your passport number is and so on. Think back to your last flight coming home from abroad and remember the flight attendants scurrying up and down the aisles handing out the forms, repeating “only one per family is required” and “no, I don’t have an extra pen” over and over. Then you negotiate with a family member to decide who is going to stand up and retrieve their passport and find a pen to fill out the form. Such fun.

Not anymore! There is now an app called Mobile Passport Control (MPC) that allows you to scan your way into the country—at least partially. (If you don’t know what an app is or have never downloaded an app to your tablet or smart phone, stop reading now and call one of your grandkids.) MPC is available for Apple and Android smart phones and tablets and works at 26 US international airports and 3 seaports of entry. Don’t worry—Boston, Miami, NYC and most of the ones we New Hampshireites use for international travel are included.

The main function of the MPC is to eliminate the Customs and Border Protection paper form and, thereby, speed up your re-entry into the US. How does it work? It allows you to fill out the form on your phone or tablet via the MPC app, after which you receive electronic receipt with an Encrypted Quick Response (QR) code. You then bring your actual passport and your mobile device with your digital QR code to the specially marked entry lanes and, voila, you are back in the USA via a streamlined process. Perhaps you’ve noticed the new blue MPC logos with lanes that allow you bypass the main hordes at the airport.

Note that MPC does NOT replace your passport—it merely replaces the paper customs and immigration form. Nor does it replace the Trusted Traveler international programs (Global Entry, Nexus and Sentri) which require background checks, fees and interviews. MPC does NOT require any interviews or background checks and is free—sort of. There are two levels of MPC apps. One is free, but doesn’t store any profile info. Hence, every time you re-enter the US, you have to enter your passport info all over again, you just get to do it on your mobile device instead of paper. Is this easier/speedier than filling out a paper form? Maybe, maybe not. But you still get to use the speedy MPC quick lanes. The “Plus” level of MPC costs $14.95 to download, but allows you to set up profiles for multiple family members, thereby storing all the personal passport info needed for the form—except your incoming flight, date, and so on, which will still need to be entered into your mobile device. Lots easier and absolutely safe and secure, so they say.

So...suppose you have Global Entry? Do the two work together? Again...sort of. They are not interchangeable. Having an MPC QR code won’t get you through the Global Entry Lane. But if you have Global Entry AND an MPC QR code, you can use either lane—depending on which is less congested.

Now for the big question: is any of this worth the trouble? It’s a personal, and open, question. Bud and I both have Global Entry, something we consider critical to re-entry into the US, especially Boston’s Logan Airport as we are often scrambling to make a bus back to NH. I decided to go for the MPC Plus, just to see how it works. After quite a bit of fussing, I got profiles set up for both us, got our passport info entered and got it password protected. The app is not the most user-friendly, but I got it done. As for whether it’s functional—I’ll report next month after we come back from Aruba.
BOW BEATS PLYMOUTH 8-7
By Alex Hall

After his Bow High School football team finally scored on Plymouth late in both teams’ season-opening game, Falcons coach Paul Cohen knew it was time to gamble.

Cohen decided to go for the two-point conversion and called a passing play that has been in his playbook for several years but he has sparingly used.

Bow senior quarterback Sebastian Beaulieu hit junior tight end Cooper Larrabee in the left side of the end zone to convert the two-point try, which proved to be the difference in the Falcons’ 8-7 home triumph over three-time defending Division II champion Plymouth.

The Bobcats entered the September 7 contest with a 27-game winning streak that included triumphs over Bow in both the 2016 and 2017 D-II title game. The Falcons lost each of their five previous games against Plymouth.

“We said before the game, ‘If it comes down to it, we can’t be afraid to try something that they’re not expecting,’” Cohen said. “And sure enough that was the difference.”

Bow senior running back Steven Guerrette capped a seven-play, 23-yard drive with a 1-yard touchdown run with 8:33 remaining to cut the Falcons’ deficit to 7-6 and set up his team’s game-winning two-point attempt.

When Beaulieu got the two-point call from Cohen, the quarterback was surprised but not nervous.

“Our coach is usually pretty cautious when it comes to those situations so I was pretty excited and pretty surprised to get that call,” Beaulieu said. “But we had a nice play drawn up and I was really confident in it. I put it in the spot where Larrabee could catch it and we made the play.”

Alongside Cohen’s decision to go for two, the Falcons’ other notable key to victory was their sizable time-of-possession advantage. Bow’s offense ran about 57 offensive plays – 24 of which were Guerrette runs – over six possessions. Plymouth’s offense ran 29 plays over five possessions.

Guerrette gained 89 yards on his 24 carries and Andrew Robbins added 28 rushing yards on nine carries for Bow. Beaulieu completed each of his four passes for 53 yards.

“It means everything,” Beaulieu said of the victory. “Plymouth is a team that we respect and they’re always fantastic year in and year out so we knew we wanted to beat them and send a message this year and luckily we were able to do that.”

HARRY S. BEAUDIN

Harry S. Beaudin of Bow, of died on August 1, 2019, at Elliot Hospital in Manchester N.H.

Harry was born on September 10, 1933, in Manchester, to Armand and Johanna (Klaridee) Beaudin. As a child, he worked on the family farm and general store in Bedford, N.H. He was a proud alumnus of the University of New Hampshire, afterwards enlisting in the United States Army where he served as Lt. Commander of the Heroe Base ASA.

He returned to New England where he worked for various technology firms including Raytheon, Xerox, and Wang. He retired early in the 1990s to his beloved lake house on Lake Kanasatka in Moultonboro, N.H.

Harry was beloved father to his three daughters, Virginia, Bri-gitte, and Noelle. He was a devoted father that was always home for dinner, happily attended every one of his daughters’ concerts or sporting events, and even helped with homework that he himself had trouble understanding. Harry was a natural performer and wit. His unmistakable laugh and outgoing personality would light up a room with smiles. He maintained a bountiful garden, donating the produce to family, friends and anyone that needed an extra five bushels of tomatoes. Harry loved the land that he tended and his lakefront property, often taking out his “bat boat” for evening joy rides.

Harry is survived by wife, Carmen Alvarez Beaudin, his constant companion for 63 years. He died just short of their 64th wedding anniversary. He is also survived by his three daughters, five grandchildren, and one great-grandchild.

JULIETTE N. CLOUGH

Juliette (Julie) N. Clough, 41, passed away on August 30, 2019, at her home in Bow. Born in Concord on December 9, 1977, the daughter of the late Edith May Bailat, Julie was raised in Jaffrey.

After graduating from Conant High School, Julie attended the University of New Hampshire in Durham where she completed a Bachelor of Science degree in business administration. After college she married Frank J. Clough on June 30, 2001, in Hopkinton, N.H.

Julie worked for several employers before spending a number of years at home to focus on raising the family’s four children. She ended her working career at the Society for the Protection of New Hampshire Forests, a job she enjoyed and found meaningful.

Julie is survived by her husband, Frank Clough, their loving children, Jesse, Maya, Andrew, and Autumn Clough. Her sister Michelaine (Mitzi) Turgeon (Raymond Turgeon) of Jaffrey, NH, her sister Denise Bailat of Manchester, NH, and her brother Claude Bailat (Mary Bailat) of Billerica, MA.

Please consider donations in her honor to the Clough Family Fund at Merrimack Savings Bank.

CAROL J. GOWARD

If there’s a photo-op at the Pearly Gates, you can bet Carol Goward of Bow took full advantage of it as she transitioned from this world to the next. She would certainly have stopped to wave and smile down to those she loves-and who love her back. There are many who do.

First and foremost, Bud, the light of her life and her husband of 53 years; their three daughters: Jill Spearman, Tracey Beaulieu, and Danielle Huston; her sons-in-law: Mark, Paul, and Dan (Carol viewed them as sons her daughters picked for her); her grandchildren: Jacy Parker, Quinn Spearman, Grady and Sebastian Beaulieu; her “sistas,” brothers, their spouses and children: sisters Joanne Kelly, Cheryl Paul, Barbara Younie and her husband Steve, Gina Galasso and her husband Paul, Rhonda Nickley and her husband Joe, Gayle Ayoub and her husband Dimitri, brothers Paul Zoia, Greg Zoia and his wife June, Dean Zoia and his wife Christine; and her many nieces and nephews.

Carol left this world suddenly and much too soon after a brief illness at 74. On August 28th, her family surrounded her hospital bed, thanked her for being in our lives, assured her we would be okay, and held her as she transitioned. If she had been able, she would have comforted us, but it was our turn to take care of her and she had taught us well through living by example.

She had a natural curiosity that led to her ability to connect with and enjoy anyone she encountered. Perhaps she began developing those abilities on the day she entered this world. On December 7th, 1944, Carol “arrived” in Quincy, MA. At the time, she was Peter and Elaine Zoia’s third child. Eventually, there were thirteen siblings. There were three things necessary for thriving in the Zoia family: finding for yourself, helping each other, and loving football. Carol carried these characteristics with her into her adult life, and Bud was the perfect partner with whom to do so.

In the winters, Carol, Bud, and “The Girls” would travel to New Hampshire for ski weekends. Eventually, those trips became so numerous they decided to purchase a vacation home in the White Mountains. They fell in love with NH and in 1982 relocated to Bow.

Over the years, Carol became known as “Little Mommy,” “Mean Carol Jean,” and “The Love of Bud’s Life.” All of these nicknames are terms of endearment and testaments to Carol’s lightheartedness and self-effacing humor.

She earned her Bachelor of Science degree in Business at the age of 47 and graduated magna cum laude. For many years, she was a Certified Financial Planner (CFP) and later switched careers to become the Director of Marketing at Havenwood-Heritage Heights Retirement Community in Concord. She loved the residents, and they loved her back.

A celebration of Carol’s life will be celebrated in a few weeks. In lieu of flowers, donations will be gratefully accepted at the Peter and Elaine Zoia Scholarship Fund, Quincy Municipal Credit Union, 100 Quincy Ave, Quincy, MA, 02170.

KERRY RICHARD MOLIN

Kerry Richard Molin (68) of Bow died unexpectedly on August 9, 2019. He was born on July 28, 1951 in Waterbury, CT and was the son of the late Wilbur and Jean (Reichenbach) Molin. The Molin Family moved to Peterborough NH in 1964, then to Antrim, NH in 1970, and owned and ran the former Hillsboro business The Country Craftsmen, a woodworking factory, furniture store, and gift shop.

Kerry graduated in 1969 from Peterborough Consolidated School and attended Worcester Polytechnic Institute and Nathanial Hawthorne College graduating with a degree in economics and business. He worked for the State of New Hampshire Banking Commission until his retirement in 2010.

He was a dedicated member of the Boy Scouts for over 60 years and earned all ranks including the prestigious Eagle Scout Award. Kerry was also elected to the Order of the Arrow and served on many committees throughout the years. For his dedicated service, the Daniel Webster Council bestowed Kerry with the Silver Beaver Award in 1988, the Order of the Arrow presented him with the National Distinguished Service Award in 1990, and the Northeast Region of the Boy Scouts of America presented Kerry with the Silver Antelope Award in 2001. In Scouting, as in life, Kerry was a servant leader and inspiration to work with. He will be missed by the Scouting community across this Nation.

Kerry was also a member of the Masons and the Harmony Lodge for over 40 years, served as Tyler for 20, and was elected Treasurer this year.

Members of his family include his two sisters and their families. Claudia Molin Sysyn and Tim Sysyn of Hancock, NH and their daughter Natalya Sysyn and partner Tim Dowling of Denver, CO. Hazel Molin and Charles Zerbinopoulos of Dover, NH and their daughter Jillian Zerbinopoulos, her husband James Gibbons and daughter Rene of Newfields, NH.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Shriners Hospital, Boy Scouts of America – Daniel Webster Council, and the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire – F & AM.
WHAT IS MEDICARE PART B?
BY BEN KINIRY, ESQ.

The following paragraphs explain what you should know about Medicare Part B as a starting point and were taken from a writing by the National Academy of Elder Law Attorneys, Inc. (NAELA).

“Is Medicare? The Medicare program is funded by workers’ and employers’ contributions and premiums paid by participants, the Hospital Insurance (HI) Trust Fund, and funds kept in the Supplementary Medical Insurance (SMI) Trust Fund.

Medicare is the principal source of insurance coverage for most Americans over age 65 as well as for younger Americans receiving Social Security Disability benefits. Medicare is divided into four major parts: Part A, Part B, Part C, and Part D. People who are receiving Social Security retirement benefits at age 65 automatically receive Medicare Part A. Others, including those who will not receive full Social Security retirement benefits until after age 65, must apply for Medicare through their Social Security office or online. It is advisable to create a personalized Medicare account on www.MyMedicare.gov in order to receive timely information about claims and payments.

What is Medicare Part B? Medicare Part B covers services (like lab tests, surgeries, and doctor visits) and supplies (like wheelchairs and walkers) considered medically necessary to treat a disease or condition.

Medicare Part B services are divided into two categories: Medically necessary services and preventive services. (Source: More information available at http://medicare.gov/what-medicare-covers/part-b/what-medicare-part-bcovers.html.)

Medicare Part B is optional for beneficiaries, who must pay a monthly premium for coverage. If a person who is eligible for Medicare Part B does not timely apply for this coverage when initially eligible and later enrolls in Medicare Part B, they will be assessed a monthly premium that is higher than the premium assessed had they enrolled when initially eligible. The premium “penalty” for late enrollment is a permanent increase in the monthly premium of an additional 10 percent per year for any 12-month period during which a person was eligible for, but did not enroll in Medicare Part B. There are situations in which even if a person is eligible for Part B, they can choose to not enroll in Part B because they are covered by a spouse’s health insurance, their own employer or retiree health insurance or have creditable coverage through another health insurance plan. When that coverage ends, they are then “required” to enroll in Part B to avoid the 10 percent per year premium penalty.

Beneficiaries with what Medicare deems “high income” (for an individual, $85,000 per year and higher; for a married couple, $170,000 per year and higher) will pay a greater proportion of their Part B premium than individuals with incomes below these thresholds.

The Social Security Administration (SSA) will determine whether a beneficiary is “high income” by looking at income information from IRS tax returns filed for the tax year two years prior to the year that the individual is receiving the Part B coverage. If IRS income information for two years prior to the individual receiving Part B coverage is absent, then income information for the tax year three years prior to the individual’s Part B benefit enrollment year will be used until the year two information is available.

If a Medicare beneficiary does not agree with the Notice he/she receives regarding an increase in his/her Part B premium, the beneficiary may request reconsideration by the SSA within 60 days after the beneficiary receives a Notice of Premium Increase.

A new initial determination may be requested (rather than a reconsideration) if the beneficiary has more recent or different information about his/her income upon which the Part B premium should be based.”

A TRIBUTE TO “ADELE”

There are so many great singers and so many great songwriters who have made lasting contributions to The Great American Songbook. And then there are a far fewer number of great singers who are also great songwriters who have had an impact on music in our country and around the world. Some examples of these multi-talented musicians are Carole King, Taylor Swift and Carrie Underwood. And then there’s Adele! Her career was launched with her first album in 2008 when she was only 20 years old. That album was certified platinum seven times in the UK and three times in the USA (with over 30,000,000 sold).

Adele Laurie Blue Adkins was born in London in 1988. Her father left when Adele was only 2 years old, leaving her mother to raise her. She began singing at age 4, and grew up spending more time singing than reading. The last book she read was Roald Dahl’s “Matilda” when she was 6 years old. She had a gift for writing prose and began writing her own songs. The combination of her perfect, expressive voice along with her own heart-felt words that give insight into her soul make us all feel the emotion of her most personal life experiences.

Her second album was released in 2011 and surpassed the sales of her first album. This album earned her six Grammy awards, including British album of the year and three American Music Awards. In the USA, her second album held the top position longer than any album since 1985 and became certified Diamond. It became the best selling album worldwide and it put Adele in the Guinness Book Of World Records. She was the first female to have two albums simultaneously in the top five of the Billboard 200, as well as the first woman in history to have three simultaneous top-ten singles. Those singles were “Someone Like You”, “Rolling In The Deep” and “Set Fire To The Rain.”

In 2012 she wrote the song “Skyfall” for the James Bond movie of the same name, and that song won an academy award and a Golden Globe for best original song. All the while, Adele was touring before sold-out audiences worldwide, breaking many attendance records.

She took a three year break and released her third album in 2015. It became the year’s best selling album and broke first-week record sales in both the UK and the US. The album also became certified Diamond and earned five Grammy awards. The lead song “Hello” became the first song in the US to sell over 1,000,000 digital copies within one week of release.

Adele taught herself to sing by listening to Ella Fitzgerald for acrobatics and scales, Etta James for passion, and Roberta Flack for control. She is one of the wealthiest singers in the world with a reported net worth of $185,000,000. TIME magazine named her one of the most influential people in the world in 2012 and 2016. She is one of the most respected and inspiring international artists of her generation. The world awaits her next album.

Megan Dubois of Bow High School was recognized as a recipient of the Red Sox Service Scholarship during a pregame ceremony at Fenway Park before the Red Sox-Tampa Bay Rays game on July 30. The program awarded students from public high schools across New England with $1,000 scholarships towards their college education based on academic performance, financial aid eligibility, and demonstrated community service.

A total of 210 public high school graduates from Vermont, Rhode Island, New Hampshire, Maine, and Connecticut have been awarded scholarships this year, and nearly all of the recipients were on hand before the game to be recognized on the field.

Before their recognition on the field at Fenway Park, the awardees participated in a community service project in collaboration with Mayor Walsh’s office and the Boston Parks and Recreation Department. The group will conduct a #Trashtag Challenge to pick up trash in five different public parks and spaces throughout Boston.
